Self Management Practice Assessment Tool for Clinicians

The purpose of this self administered survey is to provide a tool for clinicians/health care providers to reflect on their skills and knowledge on self management support in their day to day practice. Self management support involves the clinician/health care provider assisting and supporting the client to manage their own health and wellbeing. The reflection is from an overall perspective and not on the single episode of care provided.

The tool can be used by any health care provider that incorporates in their day to day practice a self management approach in their client care.

Although skills and knowledge of self management support occur throughout the health care encounter, there are particular expectations at different points of the care continuum. Consequently the survey identifies 3 key points; assessment, care planning/support and discharge/transition.
